Epworth

Epworth serves married couples and singles who want to foster. The agency serves families from any faith background and training is not faith-based. Epworth serves most counties in the state.

Epworth licenses all homes as therapeutic, but serves/places children for families who choose to foster non-therapeutic children. If the situation arises, families may foster siblings in which one or more may be non-therapeutic and/or one or more may be therapeutic.

16 training hours per year are required to maintain the foster home license beyond the initial 2-year licensing period.

There are three trainings that are mandatory through Epworth for re-certification training and the remainder of the 32 hours within the 2-year licensing period are at the discretion of the foster parent/family.

Growing Homes SE

Growing Home SE works with individuals and families who wish to serve children across the entire state of South Carolina. GHSE licenses all homes as therapeutic but also places children with families who choose to foster non-therapeutic children. Families may foster siblings, where one or more may be non-therapeutic and/ or therapeutic. Growig Home SE also supports kinship license placements, ensuring that relatives who wish to care for children in their family receive the necrssary training and resources. This includes guidance throuh the licensure process, ongoing support, and access to services that help maintain a stable and nurturing enviroment for the children. All GHSE families must complete 32 initial hours of training before becoming licensed. Additional pre-licensure training beyond the 32 hours is required for therapeutic foster home licensing, and GHSE will provide guidance during the process. Once licensed, GHSE homes must complete 16 hours of training per year within the 2-year licensing period to maintain their foster home license. GHSE determines the topics and scheduling for these training hours. Daily documentation is required for both therapeutic and non-therapeutic children placed in GHSE homes, and this documentation must be submitted online. Growing Home SE supports families throughout South Carolina in fostering both therapeutic and non-therapeutic children. The organization requires comprehensize training and daily documentation to ensure quality care and services for children and youth in foster homes, as well as support for foster parents and kinship care providers.

Lutheran Services Carolinas

Lutheran Services Carolinas is affiliated with the Lutheran Church, but serves all families and does not require a statement of faith. Families do not need to be Christian to foster with Lutheran.

Lutheran Services Carolina serves the entire state. Lutheran licenses both therapeutic and non-therapeutic homes. Lutheran will place non-therapeutic children with their therapeutic siblings in a home licensed as therapeutic in order for siblings to remain together.

Lutheran TFC (Therapeutic Foster Care) homes require 32 recertification hours to be completed within the 24-month licensing period in order to maintain license. Lutheran non-TFC homes require 30 recertification hours to be completed within the 24-month licensing period in order to maintain the license.

Lutheran does not require daily documentation for non-TFC children placed in any of their licensed homes, whether the home holds a TFC or non-TFC license.

Oasis of Hope

Oasis of hope is a Christian-based agency, but works with any individual or family who has a desire to make a difference in a child's life. Licensure requires no additional training beyond the 30 hours of pre-service training, unless specific needs of the child warrant additional instruction.

Oasis of Hope serves families statewide and licenses only non-therapeutic homes.

Oasis of Hope families must complete 30 hours of recertification training within the 24-month licensing period. Training topics/ scheduling are at the discretion of the foster parent/family.

Nancy K. Perry

Since its founding in 1972, the Nancy K. Perry Children's Shelter has provided safe harbor for thousands of children in Lexington County. Since its founding in 1972, the Nancy K. Perry Children's Shelter has provided safe harbor for thousands of children in Lexington County. Their stories are often horrific; most suffered abuse, neglect, or abandonment at the hands of those whom they trusted most. Here they found shelter— and so much more. A home environment filled with love, kindness, and gentle guidance. The security of a family-like atmosphere, headed by houseparent's who live in the facility. School, church, medical attention, and counseling. These children need so much. The Shelter is a member of The Association of Fundraising Professionals, The SC Association of Non-Profit Organizations, The SC Association of Children's Homes and Family Services, and the Lexington, West-Metro, and Irmo Chambers of Commerce.

Family Preservation Community Services

We work with youth and their families during times of difficulties—empowering them to learn healthy ways to interact with each other and their community. We have adapted and expanded our services to respond to the needs of children and families through education, resources, counseling, advocacy, and support services. We are a private, 501c3 non-profit organization. Family Preservation Community Services works with youth and their families during times of behavioral and/or emotional difficulties, empowering them to identify and access available resources to address current problems and helping them learn better ways to interact with each other and their community in order to address problems in the future. Family Preservation Community Services also provides quality substitute care placement to children referred to us by child protection service agencies.
